

Foresighted Women Are Buying Cool Wash Suits and Dresses Now

Most of them are profiting by last year's experience. They waited too long last year. The Wash Suit or Dress they wanted so very badly and which they put off getting was sold when they decided to buy. They are not making that mistake this year.

Summer Dresses—Cool Good Fitting, Fashionable

It will not take you very long to convince yourself, after seeing the prices; it would be the part of folly to attempt to make them at the price, and particularly when the styles are so decidedly fashionable and so very attractive.

The Dresses are made of Voiles in either plain or novelty designs, with Stripes or Crossbars. There is a choice of either White or Colors. They are prettily trimmed and very airy and cool in appearance.

These New Suits at Reduced Prices Will be Interesting News to Thriftily Inclined Shoppers

The price savings, are great enough to force the immediate disposal of every Suit involved. As a matter of fact, those who purchase Suits early in the season will pay much higher prices for garments designed along the same lines in a month or two from now. So the woman who wants to make the money set aside for a Suit go a very long way will be quick to grasp this extraordinary saving occasion.

$15.00 for Suits that were up to $22.50

$17.95 for Suits that were up to $25.00

Charles L. Hoernle of the Goddard seminary faculty received a communication yesterday from Winchendon, Mass., baseball fans asking how many seats for "Wiff day," June 23, in Boston are desired by Barre fans. Winchendon and St. Johnsbury fans who are interested in the baseball career of Lawton Witt, a 1915 graduate of the seminary, have made a large reservation and local fans who plan to participate in the reception will do well to communicate with Mr. Hoernle. In addition to the Goddard seminary delegation, other fans in Barre and Granville plan to go to Boston on the night before "Wiff day."

E. M. Laws of Barre catered to the marksmen yesterday and today.

The street department is determined that the daubing shall not begin until every square yard of roadway is fit, and to that end the sprinkler men have been instructed to hold the dauber in tow until they get the word. All of the streets that are to be oiled have been thoroughly scraped.

Ernest Thompson of North Main street, a mechanic employed by W. A. Lane on the construction of an office for Greason & Lane in Burroughs' meadow, sustained a painful injury yesterday when the left hand was crushed under a pile of planks. When the young man reported to Dr. J. W. Stewart, the physician found it necessary to take a number of stitches across the back of the middle digit on the hand and other injuries were dressed. It is not thought that Mr. Thompson will suffer the loss of a finger, unless it develops that the bone was affected by the injury. He will be unable to work for several days.

CIRCUS COMING.

Barre's Own Big Show—Three Rings, and Elevated Stage.

Local interest will undoubtedly be aroused to an unusual degree by the announcement that Cook & Wilson's Greatest Wild Animal circus is to exhibit in Barre July 28.

Cook & Wilson announce a performance given without exception by absolutely wild animals, captured in their native wilds and trained with the utmost difficulty by men and equally fearless women, who constantly risk life and limb in keeping their ferocious pupils under subjection. This innovation in wild animal display has had its reward, for, despite the fact that this is the newest among the country's big shows, it already has a reputation extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific. It is evident, too, that there is no "dead wood" in the Cook & Wilson exhibition, for the announcement is made that every animal in the notably large zoological collection carried by the show is trained and contributes its share toward making the performance the most interesting display of its kind ever organized. Many of the "tricks" performed by these jungle beasts are described as almost incredible. There is an exceptionally clever acrobatic performance, in which scores of the world's greatest acrobats, riders, acrobats and other circus stars appear. The performance takes place at 2 and 8. There is a preliminary concert by Al. J. Massay's splendid military band, and, in the morning at 10:30 a magnificent free street parade—adv.
